The Debate in the Senate.

The synopsis of the debate in the Senate on the 13th inst., which we publish to-day, is a triumphant refutation of the false charges made against the north and the republican party; and the speech of Iverson shows exactly what the secessionists demand.

We desire to call the especial attention of of the Douglas democrats to the remarks of Messrs. Douglas and Pugh. They make no excuses for the north in relation to the non-execution of the fugitive slave law, but declare that in every case that law has been enforced where the courts have been appealed to. In view of the position taken by these leaders of the popular sovereignty democracy, what becomes of the doughface excuses of their presses for the acts of the secessionists? If the fugitive slave law is enforced, what harm has been done by the personal liberty laws, and what is the necessity of their repeal?

It will be noted, too, that Iverson, speaking for the secessionists, scouts the idea that the repeal of the personal liberty laws is of any consequence, or that the south would be satisfied with their abrogation—he demands nothing less than a change of the public sentiment of the north in favor of slavery, and a congressional slave code for the protection of slavery in the territories. We are called upon to believe slavery morally and politically right, and to legislate in view of that belief. Are the democrats of the north ready to take that stand? We should like to hear from the Madison Patriot, on this point.

Mr. Pugh was magnanimous enough to say that nine-tenths of the republicans are opposed to interfering with slaves in the states; which is true, as far as the remark goes; he might have said ninety-nine hundredths of them. The debate was a rich one, and will be read with interest.

☞ Mr. Wade of Ohio made a speech in the senate on Monday. He took republican ground, and protested against all compromises. We had won the victory, and must have what we contended for—that slavery should not exist in the territories. He declares that a state has no right to secede—he did not apprehend that war would be made upon a seceding state, but that they had the right to do so if they thought fit—the revenue must be collected by the authority of the Chief Magistrate, and if this was resisted, force must meet force, when the weakest would go to the wall. He declared that the act of levying war against the United states was treason. Mr. Wade continued at considerable length, and as we have only a short synopsis of his speech we will defer any further reference to it until we have a more extended report.

☞ The house, on Monday, passed a resolution, by a vote of 151 to 14, recommending to the states to repeal the personal liberty laws. The house would be in better business if it would modify and humanize the fugitive slave act. If it wants conciliation let it begin to act in that direction itself. Example is always better than precept.

Another resolution was adopted, by a vote of 124 ayes and no nays, recommending that all nullification laws be repealed, and that it is the duty of the president to protect and defend the property of the United States.

☞ The London Times has another editorial article on the political split in the United States, and expresses the hope that the quarrel may give way to a calm, in which the real difficulties of the slavery question may be met and answered.

☞ The emperor of France has granted permission to the Baltimore battalion to visit Paris next spring, fully accoutered.

☞ John C. Fremont is expected at New York soon. His name is mentioned in connection with the office of secretary of war, in Mr. Lincoln's cabinet.

☞ The Bay City Press says that measures are in progress for a reorganization of the Green Bay and Madison railroad company, and a union with the Fort Howard interests by which it is hoped that Green Bay may be connected by railroad with Appleton during the coming season.

Whenever the laws of the United States shall be opposed in the execution thereof—obstructed in any state by combinations too powerful to be suppressed in the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by this act—it shall be lawful for the president of the United States to call forth the militia of such state or any other state or states, as may be necessary to suppress such combinations, and to cause the laws to be duly executed; and the use of all militia so to be called forth may be continued, if necessary, until the expiration of thirty days after the commencement of the next session of congress.

This is an extract from the United States Statutes at Large, now in force. It has evidently escaped the attention of President Buchanan, Attorney General Black and Secretary Cobb, who are under the mistaken impression that that there is no power in the general government to compel obedience to the laws, in a "seceding" state.

☞ The nomination of Attorney General Black to the office of secretary of state, has been confirmed; a out one-third of the senators voting against the appointment.

Horrible Accident.—A Woman and Child Burnt to Death.—We learn that the dwelling house of Michael Haley, of Warren, in this county, was burned on Tuesday night, 11th inst., and that Mrs. Haley, and one of her children, were burned to death with it. Mr. Haley was absent from home, leaving his wife and three children alone. Two of the children escaped from the flames, but came near perishing from the cold before reaching a neighbors, half a mile distant. It is not known how the fire originated.—Washara County Argus.

For the Daily Gazette.

Messrs. Editors.—I saw in your paper a day or two since, a quotation from a New Orleans paper rebuking the Alabama Baptist for talking about secession. I suppose you do not approve of such rebukes, since you hold to the rightful union of politics and religion, at least when religious men and preachers talk John Brown and republicanism.

The Baptists of Alabama number 60,231, a pretty large army, and among them is immense wealth, and they have many very good and able men. When they unanimously resolve that secession is inevitable, it means something. They are not indeed unanimous, but the large majority deem it advisable and necessary. When the colonies of America meditated and after they had accomplished secession, the pulpit raised its voice, and all but the Episcopal clergy favored the mighty step with all its dangers. Mr. Wingate has recently collected a very interesting volume of these political sermons of "The times that tried men's souls," and we may now see what position the ministry assumed, and how they regarded the union of politics and religion.

It is now, as it was then, a time when religious men should act firmly and wisely, and move in obedience to the clearly understood will of God. We should remember Washington in the dark days of the Revolution, going aside into the forest to pray for the cause of liberty. God can now do more for us than the mere statesman. To Him should we appeal.

PAX.

We are at a loss to understand the object of our correspondent. Whether he intends to approve the action of the Alabama Baptist convention and defend it by the course pursued during the revolution by the clergymen he alludes to; whether we are "rebuked" for publishing the article referred to; whether the anti-slavery preaching in the north is condemned, and northern ministers who have spoken from the pulpit against the sin of slavery are censured, or whether an invidious comparison is intended between the episcopal and baptist clergy, we are utterly at a loss to determine.

If the secession of the southern states, for the avowed purpose of perpetuating and extending slavery, is justified, the illustration by a revolution which was a revolt against an infinitely less oppression and wrong than slavery, is a very unfortunate one. If we are rebuked for publishing an item of news, as we publish hundreds of others, without approval or dissent, then the complaint is a very common one, so common that it has no effect upon us. If the anti slavery preaching of the north is condemned, because it is outside of legitimate pulpit duties, then only one more step is needed to pass under the same condemnation all pulpit labors against intemperance or any other moral evil. A home work might be very soon commenced in this direction. If an invidious comparison between the clergy of different denominations is designed, the effort is in very bad taste and altogether uncalled for, and a student of history might possibly find material for a bitter retort, if we would permit a discussion of that character. The revolution had as earnest supporters in the American branch of the Church of England as in any other church, and her clergy were then and are now as patriotic and faithful in their duties to the state as any other body of ecclesiastics.

Altogether, the communication of "Pax" is a puzzle, and if our readers can understand it, they will accomplish a task we have been unable to achieve.

Albany, Dec. 17.

The Evening Journal to-night publishes a leading editorial from the pen of Thurlow Weed, taking strong conservative ground, and while firmly maintaining the constitutionality of the principles of the republican party, advising such a compromise as will settle existing difficulties and avert the evils at present threatening the Union. The compromises of the Journal are set forth as follows:

We are prepared to say that an efficient, but not revolting the fugitive slave law should be passed, and that its passage should be followed by a repeal of personal liberty laws. We are almost prepared to say that territories may be safely left to take care of themselves, and that when they contain a population which, under the census, entitles them to a representative in congress they may come into the Union with a government of their own framing; provided, of course, that they conform to the constitution of the United States.—This, in view of the surroundings of the territory belonging to the republic; in view of the fact that for four years, at least, freedom will have fair play, and in view also of emigration and the census; this, we say, almost constrains us to believe that we may now confine the future of the territories to the intelligence and patriotism of those who are to inhabit them; or, if this suggestion is inadmissable, there is another which contemplates a division of the remaining territories of the United States as in 1820, when the Missouri compromise line was established. To this we shall be told that the compact was violated and that the south can't be trusted. Perhaps it would be so again, but not in our generation nor in the next, nor until the last six years have been forgotten.

Senator Seward has been in the city for three days, and left here with his family for Auburn at noon.

tories with the view of making them free states; and second, to secure the offices and patronage of the general government. They had some other schemes in their heads, such as a protective tariff, a homestead bill, a Pacific railroad and the like.—But as for any policy in their minds oppressive on the institution of slavery in the states, they had none. The most ultra New England state opposed any interference with the peculiar institutions of the south, and it was not fair nor honest to make such allegations against the republicans. The remainder of Pugh's speech was of no consequence to the general reader.

Douglas next followed. He denied the charge of Iverson that the fugitive slave law is not enforced in the northern states. He supposed all laws of congress were sometimes violated or not rigorously executed. The north enforced the fugitive slave law quite as faithfully as the south enforced the laws against the African slave trade. Nine-tenths of the complaints against the north are unfounded; there was a proneness on the part of newspapers and politicians to magnify what little truth there was in these charges, for the purpose of inflaming the passions and prejudices of their section against the north. (The Chicago Times and Herald for instance.) In regard to Illinois, a majority of the fugitives are arrested and returned without any judicial process whatever. But no notice is taken or credit given for these renditions.—In all cases where there happened a judicial arrest the slave was returned—except in two instances of rescue, in one of which the rescuers have been punished, and in the other they are awaiting trial. What was true of Illinois was equally true of other border free states. He thought there was but trifling ground of complaint against the north on the subject of fugitive slaves, and that any man ought to be ashamed to bring up that thing as one of the reasons to justify a dissolution of the Union. As to the personal liberty bills, he was opposed to them. But he never kenw of an instance in which a slaveholder lost a slave on account of them. The bills exist only in states where the fugitive rarely goes, and the fuss about them proceeds from the states which never lose any negroes. The greatest excitement is found in proportion as you recede from the line between the free and slave states. The border states, on each side of Mason and Dixon's line, are the only ones really interested in the question of recapturing fugitives. And they are the only ones who have no quarrel with each other on the subject. They don't threaten to dissolve the Union for any such flimsy pretexts. There never was a time when Illinois and Missouri could not settle all the difficulty that grew out of the escaping of slaves, by leaving it to two Justices of the Peace, selected on either side of the river, they choosing a third, and both states would abide by the award. These gentlemen, who have no interests in the matter, magnified this thing from a mole-hill into a mountain. When you get down south into Georgia and Alabama, where they never lose a slave, you find them terribly excited and disturbed by the outrages and losses under the non-fulfillment of the fugitive slave law, exactly in proportion as they have no interest in it. [Great laughter and applause on the floor and galleries.]

Green of Missouri followed. He was for planting a standing army along the borders to catch slaves. He was for a strong government. For physical power the present one was contemptible. It was not able to execute the promises and guaranties of the constitution. He preferred a centralized despotism, with such a man as Louis Napoleon to rule over us. Some might suppose he was advocating monarchy. Be it so! He would rather have one good monarch than four hundred bad ones. He admitted that the fugitive slave law was enforced in proper cases, generally; but nine out of ten never come before the law. There must be an armed police—a standing army, from east to west, and through the north—to catch the runaway slaves, or as certain as God lives, a dissolution of the Union would take place, and in that event he would go with the south.

Douglas replied: "The Senator confesses that in all instances where the attention of the courts is brought to the subject, the law is faithfully executed. What more can any man ask? No law can be said to be left unexecuted unless the case under it has been first brought before a court of some sort. It is a harsh and unjust judgment against northern people to allege that they are responsible for the escape of slaves who have never been arrested. When you talk about non execution of laws, you speak of cases that are never brought to the attention of the courts! It is a new and strange doctrine, that we are guilty of the non-fulfilment of a law, when we administer it fairly and impartially in every case brought before our tribunals."—(Laughter and applause.)

Green squirmed and twisted, but Douglas had him down and held him fast by the throat. He said he really wished the disunion gentlemen would cease dealing in vague generalities, and make out their catalogue of grievances with definite specifications, and let the senate take up each case of grief in its turn and consider it.—If this was done, the country would be amazed to see the little real cause of complaint that existed, after all the tremendous ado that was being made by the cotton states at this time.

Senator Fitch certified that the fugitive law was faithfully executed in Indiana.

Old aristocrat Mason arose with a lordly air and mien, and declared with swelling pomposity that he was utterly amazed at what Douglas had said, in relation to the execution of the fugitive law. He (Mason) knew that it was habitually trampled under foot, and that not one slave in ten who escaped was ever captured and returned.—The offence is complained of, that the free states do not see the covenants of the constitution executed. It is their duty to us to catch and restore our runaway niggers. It is the duty of the state government to help catch them. If the north expects to live with us they must catch them. They must also give us the right to take our slaves into the free states for temporary purposes. They must recognize our slaves as constitutional property. He proceeded in this strain for some time.

Douglas replied that the north was desirous to keep the covenants of the constitution, and as they did not understand the business of nigger-catching as well as the south, they agreed by their representatives in congress to assign the task of framing a satisfactory law to the gentleman from Virginia himself (who is the father of the present fugitive law.) It was passed without amendment, just as he drafted it. And now, if it works badly, why should the blow fall on the north? Why not shoulder the blame himself? If the law don't operate smoothly, it is no fault of the free states. He should not charge them with his own botch-work and blunders. For eight years the law had been in the hands of its friends. Pierce and Buchanan were democrats, the government had been democratic. No one charged those administrations with being derelict in duty. Why should the republicans be blamed, who had never been responsible for its execution? [It was with difficulty the chair restrained the applause in the galleries at these palpable hits and centre shots.] Wigfall came to the rescue of Mason, who was badly harpooned. But I must reserve for another letter the remainder of the discussion. It was decidedly rich, and agreeable to the republican side of the house.

H. Duncan, working six men, took from his claim in the Georgia gulch last week, in twenty-one working hours, over $500 in nuggets alone, of from $1 to $30 value each. There was also fine gold enough to pay all working expenses. Mr. D. is said to have earned $500 per week every week since July 1.

St. Louis, Dec. 17—9 P. M.

The St. Louis brigade returned from the southwestern border yesterday morning, and were received by a detachment of the National Guards remaining at home. Gen. Frost dismissed the troops after a brief and complimentary address, after which the partook of sumptuous dinners at the National Guards' Armory, Barnum's Hotel, and other places. The occasion was replete with expressions of kindness and congratution.

Chicago, Dec. 17—9 P. M.

The jury in the case against Bissell, based a verdict of not guilty, on the ground that the bridge was erroneously described in the indictment. Bissell was re-arrested last night for conspiracy to burn that part of the bridge belonging to the Rock Island R. R. Co. He was held to bail which he refused to give and went to jail.

Raleigh, Dec. 17—9 P. M.

In the senate to day a bill was introduced to appropriate $300,000 to arm the state. There was an exciting debate. It was made the order for to-morrow noon. A resolution, declaring the right of secession, was referred.

One Item More.—According to the Postmaster general's report, the mail service between Charleston and Savannah has cost the department for the last four years $40,000 per annum, while the revenues received from the service will not exceed $5,000 per annum. And yet that state wants to carry her own mails.

Insurance against loss or damage by fire, on Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Warehouses, Merchandise, Mills, Manufactories, and most other kinds of property, can be effected in this company upon as favorable terms as the nature of the risks and security of policy-holders will admit.

The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." As an indemnity to the insured it refers to a solid million of assets well invested; and if anything were needed to commend it to the public for liberal patronage, we might offer its history of success in business and honorable dealing with its patrons, for over half a century, as amply sufficient for the purpose.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

New York Life Insurance Company,

DAILY GAZETTE.

Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.

Interesting Debate in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13, 1860.

Senator Powell (dem., Ky.) offered a resolution to appoint a special committee of thirteen to inquire into southern grievances and report a remedy.

Bigler of Pa., made a wishy-washy sort of speech, preferring all kinds of excuses for the behavior of the people of the north and particularly Pennsylvania, which he pledged the fire eaters would never go republican again, if they would only forgive her for late offences. He was exceedingly contrite, meek, doughy and sheepish, and deserves to be spurned for his pusillanimous language, by every Pennsylvanian he meets. He was followed by Iverson of Georgia, who spit upon Powell's resolution and snubbed Bigler. He asked what legislation was proposed to protect slave-holding rights? "The fugitive slave law is a dead letter; it is continually violated in consequence of a vitiated public sentiment in the free states. The law is not defective but public sentiment is." He did not charge the failure to execute the law upon the personal liberty bills, of which so much complaint has been made. They have never operated to prevent the execution of the fugitive slave law. But it is northern mobs which are to blame. The people of the north have been taught to believe that slavery is wrong—this is the root of the evil. Northern democrats were as much corrupted in this respect as republicans. The sentiment of the people must be changed, or the slaveholders could not stay in the Union. It had been suggested to alter the constitution, making the states into which slaves escape, liable in damages for the value of the slaves. The idea was not only impracticable but absurd. What would such a clause be worth? How are you going to sue a sovereign state? Who will collect an execution for the price of a slave from the states of New York, Ohio or Massachusetts? Away with such supreme nonsense! such miserable quack remedies! But does this Union-saving committee propose to enact a slave code for the territories to appease the slave-holders? Who seriously expects that such a remedy as that will be enacted by this or any subsequent congress? What party in the north will agree to anything of the sort? The republicans have just cast 1,850,000 votes against the principle of a federal slave code and the Douglas non-intervention-squatter-sovereignty-democrats have polled over 1,200,000 votes for "My Great Principle," which is as hostile to a slave code as the Wilmot Proviso doctrine of the republicans. How futile, then, to expect that the arrogant, abolitionised north will ever consent to the passage of a law protecting slavery in the western territories? And I tell Senators here to-day, that the southern people will never be satisfied wi h anything short of a congressional slave code to protect slavery in the territories. We are entitled to a slave code, and if we cannot get it in the Union, we shall seek our rights out of the Union. Territorial expansion we shall have at all hazards. Before the 4th of March seven states will have declared their independence, and established a confederacy of their own.

Iverson proceeded in this strain of remark for over an hour, going on to show the increasing power of the north, and how its colonies were over-running and taking possession of all the public domain, cutting it up into free states and elbowing out the slaveholders by the hot-bed process of free state immigration to the west. The border slave states complain of the cotton states for the secession movement now in progress. They say we have no business to take them out of the Union against their will. Well, sir, if they don't want to go, let them stay. But they complain of us for making so much noise and confusion about fugitive slaves when our section lose no slaves, and that they who suffer make no threats on that account to dissolve the Union. I know we do not suffer in this respect; it is not at all for the want of good faith in the northern people to forces reclaiming slaves nor their personal liberty bills, that we intend to break up the Union. The trouble is far deeper. It lies in the vitiated sentiment of the north, in their notion that slavery is wrong. They must give up that; they must admit our slaves into all the territories and protect them by congressional enactment. They must recognize slaves as property under the constitution, or we can no longer tolerate a political confederacy with them. I speak the sentiments of nine-tenths of the people of the cotton states. The border states may choose to remain with the north. They can live and flourish without slavery. Their soil and climate are not appropriate to slave labor. Negroes, as laborers, are of little value to them; but with us they are essential to the cultivation of tropical products. The border states may become free and help swell the power and arrogance of the north.—Our destiny is to expand southward into the tropics. If the border states do not go with us, I will not stand security that the African slave trade will not be re-opened, and then what will become of the great monopoly of the negro market now enjoyed by the border states, including South Carolina? I want to say a word to the people of this District. If Maryland secedes and joins us, Washington city will be continued as the capital of a southern confederacy. The buildings are ready to our hand. The facilities for traveling and the transmission of news have almost annihilated distance, and our distant slave states would as soon come to Washington as to Georgia.

But if we are obstructed by the tardy action of Maryland and Virginia, and opposed and goaded by the taunts of the owners of brick and mortar here, we will permanently fix our seat of government elsewhere, and these marble palaces, now teeming with life and luxury, these habitations of beauty, grace and elegance, instead of echoing to the scenes of mirth and melody will become the habitations of bats, lizards and owls. Be careful that you do not oblige us to pronounce the words, "too late."

Iverson was followed by Pugh (democrat of Ohio) in a tolerably fair, light-weight speech, rather wordy, but not bad considering the source it came from. The main point in it was the denial that the execution of the slave law was nullified by the people of Ohio, or that it was trampled under foot anywhere in the north by mobs, as Iverson had alleged, and a denial that the republicans had any intention to interfere with slavery in the south; that it was a slander on ninety-nine out of every hundred men who voted for Lincoln to so charge. The republicans, he said, had two chief purposes: First, to keep slavery out of the terri-

Insurance against loss or damage by fire, on Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Warehouses, Merchandise, Mills, Manufactories, and most other kinds of property, can be effected in this company upon as favorable terms as the nature of the risks and security of policy-holders will admit.

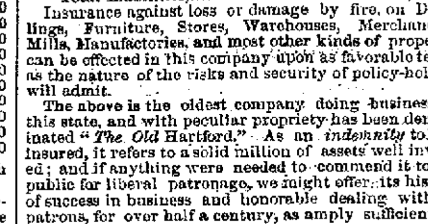

The above is the oldest company doing business in this state, and with peculiar propriety has been denominated "The Old Hartford." As an indemnity to the insured, it refers to a solid million of assets well invested; and if anything were needed to commend it to the public for liberal patronage, we might offer its history of success in business and honorable dealing with its patrons, for over half a century, as amply sufficient for the purpose.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

DAILY GAZETTE.

Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.

Interesting Debate in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13, 1860.

Senator Powell (dem., Ky.) offered a resolution to appoint a special committee of thirteen to inquire into southern grievances and report a remedy.

Bigler of Pa., made a wishy-washy sort of speech, preferring all kinds of excuses for the behavior of the people of the north and particularly Pennsylvania, which he pledged the fire eaters would never go republican again, if they would only forgive her for late offences. He was exceedingly contrite, meek, doughy and sheepish, and deserves to be spurned for his pusillanimous language, by every Pennsylvanian he meets. He was followed by Iverson of Georgia, who spit upon Powell's resolution and snubbed Bigler. He asked what legislation was proposed to protect slave-holding rights? "The fugitive slave law is a dead letter; it is continually violated in consequence of a vitiated public sentiment in the free states. The law is not defective but public sentiment is." He did not charge the failure to execute the law upon the personal liberty bills, of which so much complaint has been made. They have never operated to prevent the execution of the fugitive slave law. But it is northern mobs which are to blame. The people of the north have been taught to believe that slavery is wrong—this is the root of the evil. Northern democrats were as much corrupted in this respect as republicans. The sentiment of the people must be changed, or the slaveholders could not stay in the Union. It had been suggested to alter the constitution, making the states into which slaves escape, liable in damages for the value of the slaves. The idea was not only impracticable but absurd. What would such a clause be worth? How are you going to sue a sovereign state? Who will collect an execution for the price of a slave from the states of New York, Ohio or Massachusetts? Away with such supreme nonsense! such miserable quack remedies! But does this Union-saving committee propose to enact a slave code for the territories to appease the slave-holders? Who seriously expects that such a remedy as that will be enacted by this or any subsequent congress? What party in the north will agree to anything of the sort? The republicans have just cast 1,850,000 votes against the principle of a federal slave code and the Douglas non-intervention-squatter-sovereignty-democrats have polled over 1,200,000 votes for "My Great Principle," which is as hostile to a slave code as the Wilmot Proviso doctrine of the republicans. How futile, then, to expect that the arrogant, abolitionised north will ever consent to the passage of a law protecting slavery in the western territories? And I tell Senators here to-day, that the southern people will never be satisfied with anything short of a congressional slave code to protect slavery in the territories. We are entitled to a slave code, and if we cannot get it in the Union, we shall seek our rights out of the Union. Territorial expansion we shall have at all hazards. Before the 4th of March seven states will have declared their independence, and established a confederacy of their own.

Iverson proceeded in this strain of remark for over an hour, going on to show the increasing power of the north, and how its colonies were over-running and taking possession of all the public domain, cutting it up into free states and elbowing out the slaveholders by the hot-bed process of free state immigration to the west. The border slave states complain of the cotton states for the secession movement now in progress. They say we have no business to take them out of the Union against their will. Well, sir, if they don't want to go, let them stay. But they complain of us for making so much noise and confusion about fugitive slaves when our section lose no slaves, and that they who suffer make no threats on that account to dissolve the Union. I know we do not suffer in this respect; it is not at all for the want of good faith in the northern people to forces reclaiming slaves nor their personal liberty bills, that we intend to break up the Union. The trouble is far deeper. It lies in the vitiated sentiment of the north, in their notion that slavery is wrong. They must give up that; they must admit our slaves into all the territories and protect them by congressional enactment. They must recognize slaves as property under the constitution, or we can no longer tolerate a political confederacy with them. I speak the sentiments of nine-tenths of the people of the cotton states. The border states may choose to remain with the north. They can live and flourish without slavery. Their soil and climate are not appropriate to slave labor. Negroes, as laborers, are of little value to them; but with us they are essential to the cultivation of tropical products. The border states may become free and help swell the power and arrogance of the north.—Our destiny is to expand southward into the tropics. If the border states do not go with us, I will not stand security that the African slave trade will not be re-opened, and then what will become of the great monopoly of the negro market now enjoyed by the border states, including South Carolina? I want to say a word to the people of this District. If Maryland secedes and joins us, Washington city will be continued as the capital of a southern confederacy. The buildings are ready to our hand. The facilities for traveling and the transmission of news have almost annihilated distance, and our distant slave states would as soon come to Washington as to Georgia.

But if we are obstructed by the tardy action of Maryland and Virginia, and opposed and goaded by the taunts of the owners of brick and mortar here, we will permanently fix our seat of government elsewhere, and these marble palaces, now teeming with life and luxury, these habitations of beauty, grace and elegance, instead of echoing to the scenes of mirth and melody will become the habitations of bats, lizards and owls. Be careful that you do not oblige us to pronounce the words, "too late."

Iverson was followed by Pugh (democrat of Ohio) in a tolerably fair, light-weight speech, rather wordy, but not bad considering the source it came from. The main point in it was the denial that the execution of the slave law was nullified by the people of Ohio, or that it was trampled under foot anywhere in the north by mobs, as Iverson had alleged, and a denial that the republicans had any intention to interfere with slavery in the south; that it was a slander on ninety-nine out of every hundred men who voted for Lincoln to so charge. The republicans, he said, had two chief purposes; First, to keep slavery out of the terri-

The Debate in the Senate.

The synopsis of the debate in the Senate on the 13th inst., which we publish today, is a triumphant refutation of the false charges made against the north and the republican party; and the speech of Iverson shows exactly what the secessionists demand.

We desire to call the especial attention of of the Douglas democrats to the remarks of Messrs. Douglas and Pugh. They make no excuses for the north in relation to the non-execution of the fugitive slave law, but declare that in every case that law has been enforced where the courts have been appealed to. In view of the position taken by these leaders of the popular sovereignty democracy, what becomes of the doughface excuses of their presses for the acts of the secessionists? If the fugitive slave law is enforced, what harm has been done by the personal liberty laws, and what is the necessity of their repeal?

It will be noted, too, that Iverson, speaking for the secessionists, scouts the idea that the repeal of the personal liberty laws is of any consequence, or that the south would be satisfied with their abrogation—he demands nothing less than a change of the public sentiment of the north in favor of slavery, and a congressional slave code for the protection of slavery in the territories. We are called upon to believe slavery morally and politically right, and to legislate in view of that belief. Are the democrats of the north ready to take that stand? We should like to hear from the Madison Patriot, on this point.

Mr. Pugh was magnanimous enough to say that nine-tenths of the republicans are opposed to interfering with slaves in the states; which is true, as far as the remark goes; he might have said ninety-nine hundredths of them. The debate was a rich one, and will be read with interest.

☞ Mr. Wade of Ohio made a speech in the senate on Monday. He took republican ground, and protested against all compromises. We had won the victory, and must have what we contended for—that slavery should not exist in the territories. He declares that a state has no right to secede—he did not apprehend that war would be made upon a seceding state, but that they had the right to do so if they thought fit—the revenue must be collected by the authority of the Chief Magistrate, and if this was resisted, force must meet force, when the weakest would go to the wall. He declared that the act of levying war against the United states was treason. Mr. Wade continued at considerable length, and as we have only a short synopsis of his speech we will defer any further reference to it until we have a more extended report.

☞ The house, on Monday, passed a resolution, by a vote of 151 to 14, recommending to the states to repeal the personal liberty laws. The house would be in better business if it would modify and humanize the fugitive slave act. If it wants conciliation let it begin to act in that direction itself. Example is always better than precept.

Another resolution was adopted, by a vote of 124 ayes and no nays, recommending that all nullification laws be repealed, and that it is the duty of the president to protect and defend the property of the United States.

☞ The London Times has another editorial article on the political split in the United States, and expresses the hope that the quarrel may give way to a calm, in which the real difficulties of the slavery question may be met and answered.

☞ The emperor of France has granted permission to the Baltimore battalion to visit Paris next spring, fully accoutered.

☞ John C. Fremont is expected at New York soon. His name is mentioned in connection with the office of secretary of war, in Mr. Lincoln's cabinet.

☞ The Bay City Press says that measures are in progress for a reorganization of the Green Bay and Madison railroad company, and a union with the Fort Howard interests by which it is hoped that Green Bay may be connected by railroad with Appleton during the coming season.

Whenever the laws of the United States shall be opposed in the execution thereof—obstructed in any state by combinations too powerful to be suppressed in the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by this act—it shall be lawful for the president of the United States to call forth the militia of such state or any other state or states, as may be necessary to suppress such combinations, and to cause the laws to be duly executed; and the use of all militia so to be called forth may be continued, if necessary, until the expiration of thirty days after the commencement of the next session of congress.

This is an extract from the United States Statutes at Large, now in force. It has evidently escaped the attention of President Buchanan, Attorney General Black and Secretary Cobb, who are under the mistaken impression that that there is no power in the general government to compel obedience to the laws, in a "seceding" state.

☞ The nomination of Attorney General Black to the office of secretary of state, has been confirmed; about one-third of the senators voting against the appointment.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A WOMAN AND CHILD BURNT TO DEATH.—We learn that the dwelling house of Michael Haley, of Warren, in this county, was burned on Tuesday night, 11th inst., and that Mrs. Haley, and one of her children, were burned to death with it. Mr. Haley was absent from home, leaving his wife and three children alone. Two of the children escaped from the flames, but came near perishing from the cold before reaching a neighbors, half a mile distant. It is not known how the fire originated.—Washara County Argus.

For the Daily Gazette.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—I saw in your paper a day or two since, a quotation from a New Orleans paper rebuking the Alabama Baptist for talking about secession. I suppose you do not approve of such rebukes, since you hold to the rightful union of politics and religion, at least when religious men and preachers talk John Brown and republicanism.

The Baptists of Alabama number 60,231, a pretty large army, and among them is immense wealth, and they have many very good and able men. When they unanimously resolve that secession is inevitable, it means something. They are not indeed unanimous, but the large majority deem it advisable and necessary. When the colonies of America meditated and after they had accomplished secession, the pulpit raised its voice, and all but the Episcopal clergy favored the mighty step with all its dangers. Mr. Wingate has recently collected a very interesting volume of these political sermons of "The times that tried men's souls," and we may now see what position the ministry assumed, and how they regarded the union of politics and religion.

It is now, as it was then, a time when religious men should act firmly and wisely, and move in obedience to the clearly understood will of God. We should remember Washington in the dark days of the Revolution, going aside into the forest to pray for the cause of liberty. God can now do more for us than the mere statesman. To Him should we appeal.

PAX.

We are at a loss to understand the object of our correspondent. Whether he intends to approve the action of the Alabama Baptist convention and defend it by the course pursued during the revolution by the clergymen he alludes to; whether we are "rebuked" for publishing the article referred to; whether the anti-slavery preaching in the north is condemned, and northern ministers who have spoken from the pulpit against the sin of slavery are censured, or whether an invidious comparison is intended between the episcopal and baptist clergy, we are utterly at a loss to determine.

If the secession of the southern states, for the avowed purpose of perpetuating and extending slavery, is justified, the illustration by a revolution which was a revolt against an infinitely less oppression and wrong than slavery, is a very unfortunate one. If we are rebuked for publishing an item of news, as we publish hundreds of others, without approval or dissent, then the complaint is a very common one, so common that it has no effect upon us. If the anti-slavery preaching of the north is condemned, because it is outside of legitimate pulpit duties, then only one more step is needed to pass under the same condemnation all pulpit labors against intemperance or any other moral evil. A home work might be very soon commenced in this direction. If an invidious comparison between the clergy of different denominations is designed, the effort is in very bad taste and altogether uncalled for, and a student of history might possibly find material for a bitter retort, if we would permit a discussion of that character. The revolution had as earnest supporters in the American branch of the Church of England as in any other church, and her clergy were then and are now as patriotic and faithful in their duties to the state as any other body of ecclesiastics.

Altogether, the communication of "Pax" is a puzzle, and if our readers can understand it, they will accomplish a task we have been unable to achieve.

ALBANY, Dec. 17.

The Evening Journal to-night publishes a leading editorial from the pen of Thurlow Weed, taking strong conservative ground, and while firmly maintaining the constitutionality of the principles of the republican party, advising such a compromise as will settle existing difficulties and avert the evils at present threatening the Union. The compromises of the Journal are set forth as follows:

We are prepared to say that an efficient, but not revolting the fugitive slave law should be passed, and that its passage should be followed by a repeal of personal liberty laws. We are almost prepared to say that territories may be safely left to take care of themselves, and that when they contain a population which, under the census, entitles them to a representative in congress they may come into the Union with a government of their own framing; provided, of course, that they conform to the constitution of the United States.—This, in view of the surroundings of the territory belonging to the republic; in view of the fact that for four years, at least, freedom will have fair play, and in view also of emigration and the census; this, we say, almost constrains us to believe that we may now confine the future of the territories to the intelligence and patriotism of those who are to inhabit them; or, if this suggestion is inadmissable, there is another which contemplates a division of the remaining territories of the United States as in 1820, when the Missouri compromise line was established. To this we shall be told that the compact was violated and that the south can't be trusted. Perhaps it would be so again, but not in our generation nor in the next, nor until the last six years have been forgotten.

Senator Seward has been in the city for three days, and left here with his family for Auburn at noon.

tories with the view of making them free states; and second, to secure the offices and patronage of the general government. They had some other schemes in their heads, such as a protective tariff, a homestead bill, a Pacific railroad and the like.—But as for any policy in their minds oppressive on the institution of slavery in the states, they had none. The most ultra New England state opposed any interference with the peculiar institutions of the south, and it was not fair nor honest to make such allegations against the republicans. The remainder of Pugh's speech was of no consequence to the general reader.

Douglas next followed. He denied the charge of Iverson that the fugitive slave law is not enforced in the northern states. He supposed all laws of congress were sometimes violated or not rigorously executed. The north enforced the fugitive slave law quite as faithfully as the south enforced the laws against the African slave trade. Nine-tenths of the complaints against the north are unfounded; there was a proneness on the part of newspapers and politicians to magnify what little truth there was in these charges, for the purpose of inflaming the passions and prejudices of their section against the north. (The Chicago Times and Herald for instance.) In regard to Illinois, a majority of the fugitives are arrested and returned without any judicial process whatever. But no notice is taken or credit given for these renditions.—In all cases where there happened a judicial arrest the slave was returned—except in two instances of rescue, in one of which the rescuers have been punished, and in the other they are awaiting trial. What was true of Illinois was equally true of other border free states. He thought there was but trifling ground of complaint against the north on the subject of fugitive slaves, and that any man ought to be ashamed to bring up that thing as one of the reasons to justify a dissolution of the Union. As to the personal liberty bills, he was opposed to them. But he never kenw of an instance in which a slaveholder lost a slave on account of them. The bills exist only in states where the fugitive rarely goes, and the fuss about them proceeds from the states which never lose any negroes. The greatest excitement is found in proportion as you recede from the line between the free and slave states. The border states, on each side of Mason and Dixon's line, are the only ones really interested in the question of recapturing fugitives. And they are the only ones who have no quarrel with each other on the subject. They don't threaten to dissolve the Union for any such flimsy pretexts. There never was a time when Illinois and Missouri could not settle all the difficulty that grew out of the escaping of slaves, by leaving it to two Justices of the Peace, selected on either side of the river, they choosing a third, and both states would abide by the award. These gentlemen, who have no interests in the matter, magnified this thing from a mole-hill into a mountain. When you get down south into Georgia and Alabama, where they never lose a slave, you find them terribly excited and disturbed by the outrages and losses under the nonfulfillment of the fugitive slave law, exactly in proportion as they have no interest in it. [Great laughter and applause on the floor and galleries.]

Green of Missouri followed. He was for planting a standing army along the borders to catch slaves. He was for a strong government. For physical power the present one was contemptible. It was not able to execute the promises and guaranties of the constitution. He preferred a centralized despotism, with such a man as Louis Napoleon to rule over us. Some might suppose he was advocating monarchy. Be it so! He would rather have one good monarch than four hundred bad ones. He admitted that the fugitive slave law was enforced in proper cases, generally; but nine out of ten never come before the law. There must be an armed police—a standing army, from east to west, and through the north—to catch the runaway slaves, or as certain as God lives, a dissolution of the Union would take place, and in that event he would go with the south.

Douglas replied: "The Senator confesses that in all instances where the attention of the courts is brought to the subject, the law is faithfully executed. What more can any man ask? No law can be said to be left unexecuted unless the case under it has been first brought before a court of some sort. It is a harsh and unjust judgment against northern people to allege that they are responsible for the escape of slaves who have never been arrested. When you talk about non execution of laws, you speak of cases that are never brought to the attention of the courts! It is a new and strange doctrine, that we are guilty of the non-fulfilment of a law, when we administer it fairly and impartially in every case brought before our tribunals."—(Laughter and applause.)

Green squirmed and twisted, but Douglas had him down and held him fast by the throat. He said he really wished the disunion gentlemen would cease dealing in vague generalities, and make out their catalogue of grievances with definite specifications, and let the senate take up each case of grief in its turn and consider it.—If this was done, the country would be amazed to see the little real cause of complaint that existed, after all the tremendous ado that was being made by the cotton states at this time.

Old aristocrat Mason arose with a lordly air and mien, and declared with swelling pomposity that he was utterly amazed at what Douglas had said, in relation to the execution of the fugitive law. He (Mason) knew that it was habitually trampled under foot, and that not one slave in ten who escaped was ever captured and returned.—The offence is complained of, that the free states do not see the covenants of the constitution executed. It is their duty to us to catch and restore our runaway niggers. It is the duty of the state government to help catch them. If the north expects to live with us they must catch them. They must also give us the right to take our slaves into the free states for temporary purposes. They must recognize our slaves as constitutional property. He proceeded in this strain for some time.

Douglas replied that the north was desirous to keep the covenants of the constitution, and as they did not understand the business of nigger-catching as well as the south, they agreed by their representatives in congress to assign the task of framing a satisfactory law to the gentleman from Virginia himself (who is the father of the present fugitive law.) It was passed without amendment, just as he drafted it. And now, if it works badly, why should the blow fall on the north? Why not shoulder the blame himself? If the law don't operate smoothly, it is no fault of the free states. He should not charge them with his own botch-work and blunders. For eight years the law had been in the hands of its friends. Pierce and Buchanan were democrats, the government had been democratic. No one charged those administrations with being derelict in duty. Why should the republicans be blamed, who had never been responsible for its execution? [It was with difficulty the chair restrained the applause in the galleries at these palpable hits and centre shots.] Wigfall came to the rescue of Mason, who was badly harpooned. But I must reserve for another letter the remainder of the discussion. It was decidedly rich, and agreeable to the republican side of the house.

The Debate in the Senate.

The synopsis of the debate in the Senate on the 13th inst., which we publish to-day, is a triumphant refutation of the false charges made against the north and the republican party; and the speech of Iverson shows exactly what the secessionists demand.

We desire to call the especial attention of of the Douglas democrats to the remarks of Messrs. Douglas and Pugh. They make no excuses for the north in relation to the non-execution of the fugitive slave law, but declare that in every case that law has been enforced where the courts have been appealed to. In view of the position taken by these leaders of the popular sovereignty democracy, what becomes of the doughface excuses of their presses for the acts of the secessionists? If the fugitive slave law is enforced, what harm has been done by the personal liberty laws, and what is the necessity of their repeal?

It will be noted, too, that Iverson, speaking for the secessionists, scouts the idea that the repeal of the personal liberty laws is of any consequence, or that the south would be satisfied with their abrogation—he demands nothing less than a change of the public sentiment of the north in favor of slavery, and a congressional slave code for the protection of slavery in the territories. We are called upon to believe slavery morally and politically right, and to legislate in view of that belief. Are the democrats of the north ready to take that stand? We should like to hear from the Madison Patriot, on this point.

Mr. Pugh was magnanimous enough to say that nine-tenths of the republicans are opposed to interfering with slaves in the states; which is true, as far as the remark goes; he might have said ninety-nine hundredths of them. The debate was a rich one, and will be read with interest.

☞ Mr. Wade of Ohio made a speech in the senate on Monday. He took republican ground, and protested against all compromises. We had won the victory, and must have what we contended for—that slavery should not exist in the territories. He declares that a state has no right to secede—he did not apprehend that war would be made upon a seceding state, but that they had the right to do so if they thought fit—the revenue must be collected by the authority of the Chief Magistrate, and if this was resisted, force must meet force, when the weakest would go to the wall. He declared that the act of levying war against the United states was treason. Mr. Wade continued at considerable length, and as we have only a short synopsis of his speech we will defer any further reference to it until we have a more extended report.

☞ The house, on Monday, passed a resolution, by a vote of 151 to 14, recommending to the states to repeal the personal liberty laws. The house would be in better business if it would modify and humanize the fugitive slave act. If it wants conciliation let it begin to act in that direction itself. Example is always better than precept.

Another resolution was adopted, by a vote of 124 ayes and no nays, recommending that all nullification laws be repealed, and that it is the duty of the president to protect and defend the property of the United States.

☞ The London Times has another editorial article on the political split in the United States, and expresses the hope that the quarrel may give way to a calm, in which the real difficulties of the slavery question may be met and answered.

☞ The emperor of France has granted permission to the Baltimore battalion to visit Paris next spring, fully accoutered.

☞ John C. Fremont is expected at New York soon. His name is mentioned in connection with the office of secretary of war, in Mr. Lincoln's cabinet.

☞ The Bay City Press says that measures are in progress for a reorganization of the Green Bay and Madison railroad company, and a union with the Fort Howard interests by which it is hoped that Green Bay may be connected by railroad with Appleton during the coming season.

Whenever the laws of the United States shall be opposed in the execution thereof—obstructed in any state by combinations too powerful to be suppressed in the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by this act—it shall be lawful for the president of the United States to call forth the militia of such state or any other state or states, as may be necessary to suppress such combinations, and to cause the laws to be duly executed; and the use of all militia so to be called forth may be continued, if necessary, until the expiration of thirty days after the commencement of the next session of congress.

This is an extract from the United States Statutes at Large, now in force. It has evidently escaped the attention of President Buchanan, Attorney General Black and Secretary Cobb, who are under the mistaken impression that that there is no power in the general government to compel obedience to the laws, in a "seceding" state.

☞ The nomination of Attorney General Black to the office of secretary of state, has been confirmed; about one-third of the senators voting against the appointment.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A WOMAN AND CHILD BURNT TO DEATH.—We learn that the dwelling house of Michael Haley, of Warren, in this county, was burned on Tuesday night, 11th inst., and that Mrs. Haley, and one of her children, were burned to death with it. Mr. Haley was absent from home, leaving his wife and three children alone. Two of the children escaped from the flames, but came near perishing from the cold before reaching a neighbors, half a mile distant. It is not known how the fire originated.—Washara County Argus.

For the Daily Gazette.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—I saw in your paper a day or two since, a quotation from a New Orleans paper rebuking the Alabama Baptist for talking about secession. I suppose you do not approve of such rebukes, since you hold to the rightful union of politics and religion, at least when religious men and preachers talk John Brown and republicanism.

The Baptists of Alabama number 60,231, a pretty large army, and among them is immense wealth, and they have many very good and able men. When they unanimously resolve that secession is inevitable, it means something. They are not indeed unanimous, but the large majority deem it advisable and necessary. When the colonies of America meditated and after they had accomplished secession, the pulpit raised its voice, and all but the Episcopal clergy favored the mighty step with all its dangers. Mr. Wingate has recently collected a very interesting volume of these political sermons of "The times that tried men's souls," and we may now see what position the ministry assumed, and how they regarded the union of politics and religion.

It is now, as it was then, a time when religious men should act firmly and wisely, and move in obedience to the clearly understood will of God. We should remember Washington in the dark days of the Revolution, going aside into the forest to pray for the cause of liberty. God can now do more for us than the mere statesman. To Him should we appeal.

PAX.

We are at a loss to understand the object of our correspondent. Whether he intends to approve the action of the Alabama Baptist convention and defend it by the course pursued during the revolution by the clergymen he alludes to; whether we are "rebuked" for publishing the article referred to; whether the anti-slavery preaching in the north is condemned, and northern ministers who have spoken from the pulpit against the sin of slavery are censured, or whether an invidious comparison is intended between the episcopal and baptist clergy, we are utterly at a loss to determine.

If the secession of the southern states, for the avowed purpose of perpetuating and extending slavery, is justified, the illustration by a revolution which was a revolt against an infinitely less oppression and wrong than slavery, is a very unfortunate one. If we are rebuked for publishing an item of news, as we publish hundreds of others, without approval or dissent, then the complaint is a very common one, so common that it has no effect upon us. If the anti slavery preaching of the north is condemned, because it is outside of legitimate pulpit duties, then only one more step is needed to pass under the same condemnation all pulpit labors against intemperance or any other moral evil. A home work might be very soon commenced in this direction. If an invidious comparison between the clergy of different denominations is designed, the effort is in very bad taste and altogether uncalled for, and a student of history might possibly find material for a bitter retort, if we would permit a discussion of that character. The revolution had as earnest supporters in the American branch of the Church of England as in any other church, and her clergy were then and are now as patriotic and faithful in their duties to the state as any other body of ecclesiastics.

Altogether, the communication of "Pax" is a puzzle, and if our readers can understand it, they will accomplish a task we have been unable to achieve.

ALBANY, Dec. 17.

The Evening Journal to-night publishes a leading editorial from the pen of Thurlow Weed, taking strong conservative ground, and while firmly maintaining the constitutionality of the principles of the republican party, advising such a compromise as will settle existing difficulties and avert the evils at present threatening the Union. The compromises of the Journal are set forth as follows:

We are prepared to say that an efficient, but not revolting the fugitive slave law should be passed, and that its passage should be followed by a repeal of personal liberty laws. We are almost prepared to say that territories may be safely left to take care of themselves, and that when they contain a population which, under the census, entitles them to a representative in congress they may come into the Union with a government of their own framing; provided, of course, that they conform to the constitution of the United States.—This, in view of the surroundings of the territory belonging to the republic; in view of the fact that for four years, at least, freedom will have fair play, and in view also of emigration and the census; this, we say, almost constrains us to believe that we may now confine the future of the territories to the intelligence and patriotism of those who are to inhabit them; or, if this suggestion is inadmissable, there is another which contemplates a division of the remaining territories of the United States as in 1820, when the Missouri compromise line was established. To this we shall be told that the compact was violated and that the south can't be trusted. Perhaps it would be so again, but not in our generation nor in the next, nor until the last six years have been forgotten.

Senator Seward has been in the city for three days, and left here with his family for Auburn at noon.

tories with the view of making them free states; and second, to secure the offices and patronage of the general government. They had some other schemes in their heads, such as a protective tariff, a homestead bill, a Pacific railroad and the like.—But as for any policy in their minds oppressive on the institution of slavery in the states, they had none. The most ultra New England state opposed any interference with the peculiar institutions of the south, and it was not fair nor honest to make such allegations against the republicans. The remainder of Pugh's speech was of no consequence to the general reader.

Douglas next followed. He denied the charge of Iverson that the fugitive slave law is not enforced in the northern states. He supposed all laws of congress were sometimes violated or not rigorously executed. The north enforced the fugitive slave law quite as faithfully as the south enforced the laws against the African slave trade. Nine-tenths of the complaints against the north are unfounded; there was a proneness on the part of newspapers and politicians to magnify what little truth there was in these charges, for the purpose of inflaming the passions and prejudices of their section against the north. (The Chicago Times and Herald for instance.) In regard to Illinois, a majority of the fugitives are arrested and returned without any judicial process whatever. But no notice is taken or credit given for these renditions.—In all cases where there happened a judicial arrest the slave was returned—except in two instances of rescue, in one of which the rescuers have been punished, and in the other they are awaiting trial. What was true of Illinois was equally true of other border free states. He thought there was but trifling ground of complaint against the north on the subject of fugitive slaves, and that any man ought to be ashamed to bring up that thing as one of the reasons to justify a dissolution of the Union. As to the personal liberty bills, he was opposed to them. But he never kenw of an instance in which a slaveholder lost a slave on account of them. The bills exist only in states where the fugitive rarely goes, and the fuss about them proceeds from the states which never lose any negroes. The greatest excitement is found in proportion as you recede from the line between the free and slave states. The border states, on each side of Mason and Dixon's line, are the only ones really interested in the question of recapturing fugitives. And they are the only ones who have no quarrel with each other on the subject. They don't threaten to dissolve the Union for any such flimsy pretexts. There never was a time when Illinois and Missouri could not settle all the difficulty that grew out of the escaping of slaves, by leaving it to two Justices of the Peace, selected on either side of the river, they choosing a third, and both states would abide by the award. These gentlemen, who have no interests in the matter, magnified this thing from a mole-hill into a mountain. When you get down south into Georgia and Alabama, where they never lose a slave, you find them terribly excited and disturbed by the outrages and losses under the non-fulfillment of the fugitive slave law, exactly in proportion as they have no interest in it. [Great laughter and applause on the floor and galleries.]

Green of Missouri followed. He was for planting a standing army along the borders to catch slaves. He was for a strong government. For physical power the present one was contemptible. It was not able to execute the promises and guaranties of the constitution. He preferred a centralized despotism, with such a man as Louis Napoleon to rule over us. Some might suppose he was advocating monarchy. Be it so! He would rather have one good monarch than four hundred bad ones. He admitted that the fugitive slave law was enforced in proper cases, generally; but nine out of ten never come before the law. There must be an armed police—a standing army, from east to west, and through the north—to catch the runaway slaves, or as certain as God lives, a dissolution of the Union would take place, and in that event he would go with the south.

Douglas replied: "The Senator confesses that in all instances where the attention of the courts is brought to the subject, the law is faithfully executed. What more can any man ask? No law can be said to be left unexecuted unless the case under it has been first brought before a court of some sort. It is a harsh and unjust judgment against northern people to allege that they are responsible for the escape of slaves who have never been arrested. When you talk about non execution of laws, you speak of cases that are never brought to the attention of the courts! It is a new and strange doctrine, that we are guilty of the non-fulfilment of a law, when we administer it fairly and impartially in every case brought before our tribunals."—(Laughter and applause.)

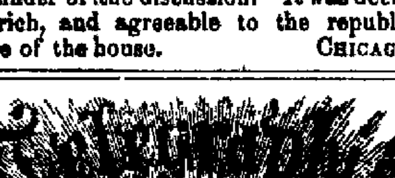

Green squirmed and twisted, but Douglas had him down and held him fast by the throat. He said he really wished the disunion gentlemen would cease dealing in vague generalities, and make out their catalogue of grievances with definite specifications, and let the senate take up each case of grief in its turn and consider it.—If this was done, the country would be amazed to see the little real cause of complaint that existed, after all the tremendous ado that was being made by the cotton states at this time.

Old aristocrat Mason arose with a lordly air and mien, and declared with swelling pomposity that he was utterly amazed at what Douglas had said, in relation to the execution of the fugitive law. He (Mason) knew that it was habitually trampled under foot, and that not one slave in ten who escaped was ever captured and returned.—The offence is complained of, that the free states do not see the covenants of the constitution executed. It is their duty to us to catch and restore our runaway niggers. It is the duty of the state government to help catch them. If the north expects to live with us they must catch them. They must also give us the right to take our slaves into the free states for temporary purposes. They must recognize our slaves as constitutional property. He proceeded in this strain for some time.

Douglas replied that the north was desirous to keep the covenants of the constitution, and as they did not understand the business of nigger-catching as well as the south, they agreed by their representatives in congress to assign the task of framing a satisfactory law to the gentleman from Virginia himself (who is the father of the present fugitive law.) It was passed without amendment, just as he drafted it. And now, if it works badly, why should the blow fall on the north? Why not shoulder the blame himself? If the law don't operate smoothly, it is no fault of the free states. He should not charge them with his own botch-work and blunders. For eight years the law had been in the hands of its friends. Pierce and Buchanan were democrats, the government had been democratic. No one charged those administrations with being derelict in duty. Why should the republicans be blamed, who had never been responsible for its execution? [It was with difficulty the chair restrained the applause in the galleries at these palpable hits and centre shots.] Wigfall came to the rescue of Mason, who was badly harpooned. But I must reserve for another letter the remainder of the discussion. It was decidedly rich, and agreeable to the republican side of the house.

CHICAGO.

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE.

BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE, Office in Union Passenger Depot.

[Our usual report failed this afternoon.]

FORT KEARNEY, Dec. 17.

The C. O. C. and P. P. express coach, with five passengers from Denver, passed here at 3 P. M., yesterday, leaving the following:

DENVER, Dec. 13.

H. Duncan, working six men, took from his claim in the Georgia gulch last week, in twenty-one working hours, over $500 in nuggets alone, of from $1 to $30 value each. There was also fine gold enough to pay all working expenses. Mr. D. is said to have earned $500 per week every week since July 1.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17—9 P. M.

The St. Louis brigade returned from the southwestern border yesterday morning, and were received by a detachment of the National Guards remaining at home. Gen. Frost dismissed the troops after a brief and complimentary address, after which the partook of sumptuous dinners at the National Guards' Armory, Barnum's Hotel, and other places. The occasion was replete with expressions of kindness and congratulation.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—9 P. M.

The jury in the case against Bissell, based a verdict of not guilty, on the ground that the bridge was erroneously described in the indictment. Bissell was re-arrested last night for conspiracy to burn that part of the bridge belonging to the Rock Island R. R. Co. He was held to bail which he refused to give and went to jail.

RALEIGH, DEC. 17—9 P. M.

In the senate to day a bill was introduced to appropriate $300,000 to arm the state. There was an exciting debate. It was made the order for to-morrow noon. A resolution, declaring the right of secession, was referred.

ONE ITEM MORE.—According to the Postmaster general's report, the mail service between Charleston and Savannah has cost the department for the last four years $40,000 per annum, while the revenues received from the service will not exceed $5,000 per annum. And yet that state wants to carry her own mails.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Lecture on Mexico and Central America.

From the conversation we have had with Mr. R. Wm. Hoit, who announces a lecture on Mexico and Central America at Lappin's Hall on Thursday evening next, we understand that one of the motives of the lecturer, and one of the objects of the lecture, is to aid in forming and maturing a sound and practical public opinion in this country at this crisis of our history in relation to these countries.

Mr. Hoit assumes, as a self-evident proposition—a fixed fact requiring no proof, that some policy, different from that pursued by previous administrations towards these distracted countries, should now be adopted. Of this fact the Spanish, French and English governments have become convinced, and are taking preliminary steps to carry out their designs for the protection of the lives and property of their subjects residing in them. Mr. Hoit considers that this country will necessarily have to interfere in the establishmedt of peace and tranquility between the contending factions of these so-called republics, but which in reality disgrace the name, and that the true interests of the United States, those of humanity, civilization and freedom, no less than the welfare and prosperity of those countries themselves, demand a statesman-like and decisive policy to be adopted by this country, in defence of and in security for the lives and property of American citizens, who have established enterprises of commerce and industry and manufactories in them, and looking to the final absorption into one great and free republic to the Isthmus of Panama.

Mr. Hoit proposes to submit to the public the results of his observations and practical experience during twenty years, and hopes to correct some erroneous impressions, and help to shape the public mind in the right direction relative to those countries, and the question of slavery as applicable to them.

Fillibusterism has proved abortive; has died a natural death, and the field is now open to practical men for colonization enterprises, which, if properly established, will, it is contended by the lecturer, meet with brilliant success.

Mr. H. resides at Tiger Island, on the Pacific side of the state of Honduras, which is one of the states which composed the republic of Guatamala, where he has steam mills cutting mahogany and cedar timber, and intends returning with a number of practical men. He is not only well informed, but also practically experienced in all that pertains to those countries and their inhabitants, on which he will lecture, and, withal, personally interested in their condition and prosperity. Having resided in the city of Mexico from 1840 to 1847, Mr. Hoit is equally posted in relation to that republic, and we bespeak for his lecture a full attendance by our citizens.

Children's Books.

Messrs. Crosby, Nichols, Lee & Co., of Boston, send us a neat case containing six volumes of books, bound in "blue and gold," designed for the instruction and entertainment of children. They are entitled "Little Frankie's Stories," by Mrs. Madeline Leslie, and are illustrated by Billings with numerous wood cuts. These volumes give an account of "Little Frankie" and his mother, at his plays, with his cousin, his father, on a journey, and at school—all told in a charming style. The little boy who gets these "Frankie's Stories," as a Christmas or New Year's present, will be made happy for a good while, and perhaps better for life, as they contain excellent moral precepts, mingled with that which will attract the attention and interest the mind of a child. If any father or mother who reads this, desires a handsome holiday gift for their little son, they can find these books at Moseley & Brother's bookstore, together with a large assortment of other books suitable for old and young.

Circuit Court.—The jury, in the case of Phillip Baxter, indicted for resisting an officer in the discharge of his official duty, disagreed, and a nolle prosequi was entered.

The complaint against Jed. H. Rook was for selling liquor without a license, and dismissed in consequence of an informality in the warrant.

The forenoon, to-day, was occupied in trying the question of the proper spelling a man's name. Uncle Tim of Johnstown, was indicted for selling liquor without a license, and he put in a plea in abatement that his name is Husbrook, and not Hasbrook, as the indictment declared. A jury took the case, after the examination of several witnesses, and decided in favor of the u. So "Tim" escapes in consequence of bad spelling.

Alfred H. Mayo was indicted for resisting an officer. He stood trial, but before the jury came in with a verdict was seized with a sudden impulse to slope, which he promptly executed.

A complaint against —— Ingalls for selling liquor without a license was dismissed; John Smith, the same; J. Monroe and Samuel Hughes, same complaint, recognisance forfeited.

The trial of Daniel Mapes for murder commenced this afternoon. I. C. Sloan, district attorney, prosecuting and Wm. H. Ebbett and J. R. Bennett defending. The following jury was empanneled.

A. Sherman, Reuben Slawson, S. D. Butts A. G. Benedict, A. G. Gifford, Guy Carter, Chancy G. Howard, K. W. Bemis, N. W. Wilcox, E. Carey, Simeon Reed and Ira Fish.

We shall have a report of this trial as it progresses.

Palmer's Drug Store.—We have to-day a new advertisement from the drug store of Andrew Palmer. Mr. P. has made a large addition to his stock, and with his uniform, fair dealing, and the excellence of his articles, is receiving a corresponding increase of trade. A full stock of choice family groceries will call housekeepers to his store, as well as those who need what more particularly pertains to a drug store.

Seasonable Fruits.—The attention of the reader is directed to the advertisement of Mr. Wheelock. His supply of fruits is large and embraces all the varieties capable of preservation in any form. Housekeepers will do well to see what he can furnish.

The Debate in the Senate.

The synopsis of the debate in the Senate on the 13th inst., which we publish to-day, is a triumphant refutation of the false charges made against the north and the republican party; and the speech of Iverson shows exactly what the secessionists demand.

We desire to call the especial attention of of the Douglas democrats to the remarks of Messrs. Douglas and Pugh. They make no excuses for the north in relation to the non-execution of the fugitive slave law, but declare that in every case that law has been enforced where the courts have been appealed to. In view of the position taken by these leaders of the popular sovereignty democracy, what becomes of the doughface excuses of their presses for the acts of the secessionists? If the fugitive slave law is enforced, what harm has been done by the personal liberty laws, and what is the necessity of their repeal?

It will be noted, too, that Iverson, speaking for the secessionists, scouts the idea that the repeal of the personal liberty laws is of any consequence, or that the south would be satisfied with their abrogation—he demands nothing less than a change of the public sentiment of the north in favor of slavery, and a congressional slave code for the protection of slavery in the territories. We are called upon to believe slavery morally and politically right, and to legislate in view of that belief. Are the democrats of the north ready to take that stand? We should like to hear from the Madison Patriot, on this point.

Mr. Pugh was magnanimous enough to say that nine-tenths of the republicans are opposed to interfering with slaves in the states; which is true, as far as the remark goes; he might have said ninety-nine hundredths of them. The debate was a rich one, and will be read with interest.

☞ Mr. Wade of Ohio made a speech in the senate on Monday. He took republican ground, and protested against all compromises. We had won the victory, and must have what we contended for—that slavery should not exist in the territories. He declares that a state has no right to secede—he did not apprehend that war would be made upon a seceding state, but that they had the right to do so if they thought fit—the revenue must be collected by the authority of the Chief Magistrate, and if this was resisted, force must meet force, when the weakest would go to the wall. He declared that the act of levying war against the United states was treason. Mr. Wade continued at considerable length, and as we have only a short synopsis of his speech we will defer any further reference to it until we have a more extended report.

☞ The house, on Monday, passed a resolution, by a vote of 151 to 14, recommending to the states to repeal the personal liberty laws. The house would be in better business if it would modify and humanize the fugitive slave act. If it wants conciliation let it begin to act in that direction itself. Example is always better than precept.

Another resolution was adopted, by a vote of 124 ayes and no nays, recommending that all nullification laws be repealed, and that it is the duty of the president to protect and defend the property of the United States.

☞ The London Times has another editorial article on the political split in the United States, and expresses the hope that the quarrel may give way to a calm, in which the real difficulties of the slavery question may be met and answered.

☞ The emperor of France has granted permission to the Baltimore battalion to visit Paris next spring, fully accoutered.

☞ John C. Fremont is expected at New York soon. His name is mentioned in connection with the office of secretary of war, in Mr. Lincoln's cabinet.

☞ The Bay City Press says that measures are in progress for a reorganization of the Green Bay and Madison railroad company, and a union with the Fort Howard interests by which it is hoped that Green Bay may be connected by railroad with Appleton during the coming season.

Whenever the laws of the United States shall be opposed in the execution thereof—obstructed in any state by combinations too powerful to be suppressed in the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by this act—it shall be lawful for the president of the United States to call forth the militia of such state or any other state or states, as may be necessary to suppress such combinations, and to cause the laws to be duly executed; and the use of all militia so to be called forth may be continued, if necessary, until the expiration of thirty days after the commencement of the next session of congress.

This is an extract from the United States Statutes at Large, now in force. It has evidently escaped the attention of President Buchanan, Attorney General Black and Secretary Cobb, who are under the mistaken impression that that there is no power in the general government to compel obedience to the laws, in a "seceding" state.

☞ The nomination of Attorney General Black to the office of secretary of state, has been confirmed; about one-third of the senators voting against the appointment.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A WOMAN AND CHILD BURNT TO DEATH.—We learn that the dwelling house of Michael Haley, of Warren, in this county, was burned on Tuesday night, 11th inst., and that Mrs. Haley, and one of her children, were burned to death with it. Mr. Haley was absent from home, leaving his wife and three children alone. Two of the children escaped from the flames, but came near perishing from the cold before reaching a neighbors, half a mile distant. It is not known how the fire originated.—Washara County Argus.

For the Daily Gazette.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—I saw in your paper a day or two since, a quotation from a New Orleans paper rebuking the Alabama Baptist for talking about secession. I suppose you do not approve of such rebukes, since you hold to the rightful union of politics and religion, at least when religious men and preachers talk John Brown and republicanism.

The Baptists of Alabama number 60,231, a pretty large army, and among them is immense wealth, and they have many very good and able men. When they unanimously resolve that secession is inevitable, it means something. They are not indeed unanimous, but the large majority deem it advisable and necessary. When the colonies of America meditated and after they had accomplished secession, the pulpit raised its voice, and all but the Episcopal clergy favored the mighty step with all its dangers. Mr. Wingate has recently collected a very interesting volume of these political sermons of "The times that tried men's souls," and we may now see what position the ministry assumed, and how they regarded the union of politics and religion.

It is now, as it was then, a time when religious men should act firmly and wisely, and move in obedience to the clearly understood will of God. We should remember Washington in the dark days of the Revolution, going aside into the forest to pray for the cause of liberty. God can now do more for us than the mere statesman. To Him should we appeal.

PAX.

We are at a loss to understand the object of our correspondent. Whether he intends to approve the action of the Alabama Baptist convention and defend it by the course pursued during the revolution by the clergymen he alludes to; whether we are "rebuked" for publishing the article referred to; whether the anti-slavery preaching in the north is condemned, and northern ministers who have spoken from the pulpit against the sin of slavery are censured, or whether an invidious comparison is intended between the episcopal and baptist clergy, we are utterly at a loss to determine.

If the secession of the southern states, for the avowed purpose of perpetuating and extending slavery, is justified, the illustration by a revolution which was a revolt against an infinitely less oppression and wrong than slavery, is a very unfortunate one. If we are rebuked for publishing an item of news, as we publish hundreds of others, without approval or dissent, then the complaint is a very common one, so common that it has no effect upon us. If the anti-slavery preaching of the north is condemned, because it is outside of legitimate pulpit duties, then only one more step is needed to pass under the same condemnation all pulpit labors against intemperance or any other moral evil. A home work might be very soon commenced in this direction. If an invidious comparison between the clergy of different denominations is designed, the effort is in very bad taste and altogether uncalled for, and a student of history might possibly find material for a bitter retort, if we would permit a discussion of that character. The revolution had as earnest supporters in the American branch of the Church of England as in any other church, and her clergy were then and are now as patriotic and faithful in their duties to the state as any other body of ecclesiastics.

Altogether, the communication of "Pax" is a puzzle, and if our readers can understand it, they will accomplish a task we have been unable to achieve.

ALBANY, Dec. 17.

The Evening Journal to-night publishes a leading editorial from the pen of Thurlow Weed, taking strong conserative ground, and while firmly maintaining the constitutionality of the principles of the republican party, advising such a compromise as will settle existing difficulties and avert the evils at present threatening the Union. The compromises of the Journal are set forth as follows:

We are prepared to say that an efficient, but not revolting the fugitive slave law should be passed, and that its passage should be followed by a repeal of personal liberty laws. We are almost prepared to say that territories may be safely left to take care of themselves, and that when they contain a population which, under the census, entitles them to a representative in congress they may come into the Union with a government of their own framing; provided, of course, that they conform to the constitution of the United States.—This, in view of the surroundings of the territory belonging to the republic; in view of the fact that for four years, at least, freedom will have fair play, and in view also of emigration and the census; this, we say, almost constrains us to believe that we may now confine the future of the territories to the intelligence and patriotism of those who are to inhabit them; or, if this suggestion is inadmissable, there is another which contemplates a division of the remaining territories of the United States as in 1820, when the Missouri compromise line was established. To this we shall be told that the compact was violated and that the south can't be trusted. Perhaps it would be so again, but not in our generation nor in the next, nor until the last six years have been forgotten.

Senator Seward has been in the city for three days, and left here with his family for Auburn at noon.

tories with the view of making them free states; and second, to secure the offices and patronage of the general government. They had some other schemes in their heads, such as a protective tariff, a homestead bill, a Pacific railroad and the like.—But as for any policy in their minds oppressive on the institution of slavery in the states, they had none. The most ultra New England state opposed any interference with the peculiar institutions of the south, and it was not fair nor honest to make such allegations against the republicans. The remainder of Pugh's speech was of no consequence to the general reader.

Douglas next followed. He denied the charge of Iverson that the fugitive slave law is not enforced in the northern states. He supposed all laws of congress were sometimes violated or not rigorously executed. The north enforced the fugitive slave law quite as faithfully as the south enforced the laws against the African slave trade. Nine-tenths of the complaints against the north are unfounded; there was a proneness on the part of newspapers and politicians to magnify what little truth there was in these charges, for the purpose of inflaming the passions and prejudices of their section against the north. (The Chicago Times and Herald for instance.) In regard to Illinois, a majority of the fugitives are arrested and returned without any judicial process whatever. But no notice is taken or credit given for these renditions.—In all cases where there happened a judicial arrest the slave was returned—except in two instances of rescue, in one of which the rescuers have been punished, and in the other they are awaiting trial. What was true of Illinois was equally true of other border free states. He thought there was but trifling ground of complaint against the north on the subject of fugitive slaves, and that any man ought to be ashamed to bring up that thing as one of the reasons to justify a dissolution of the Union. As to the personal liberty bills, he was opposed to them. But he never kenw of an instance in which a slaveholder lost a slave on account of them. The bills exist only in states where the fugitive rarely goes, and the fuss about them proceeds from the states which never lose any negroes. The greatest excitement is found in proportion as you recede from the line between the free and slave states. The border states, on each side of Mason and Dixon's line, are the only ones really interested in the question of recapturing fugitives. And they are the only ones who have no quarrel with each other on the subject. They don't threaten to dissolve the Union for any such flimsy pretexts. There never was a time when Illinois and Missouri could not settle all the difficulty that grew out of the escaping of slaves, by leaving it to two Justices of the Peace, selected on either side of the river, they choosing a third, and both states would abide by the award. These gentlemen, who have no interests in the matter, magnified this thing from a mole-hill into a mountain. When you get down south into Georgia and Alabama, where they never lose a slave, you find them terribly excited and disturbed by the outrages and losses under the non-fulfillment of the fugitive slave law, exactly in proportion as they have no interest in it. [Great laughter and applause on the floor and galleries.]

Green of Missouri followed. He was for planting a standing army along the borders to catch slaves. He was for a strong government. For physical power the present one was contemptible. It was not able to execute the promises and guaranties of the constitution. He preferred a centralized despotism, with such a man as Louis Nepoleon to rule over us. Some might suppose he was advocating monarchy. Be it so! He would rather have one good monarch than four hundred bad ones. He admitted that the fugitive slave law was enforced in proper cases, generally; but nine out of ten never come before the law. There must be an armed police—a standing army, from east to west, and through the north—to catch the runaway slaves, or as certain as God lives, a dissolution of the Union would take place, and in that event he would go with the south.

Douglas replied: "The Senator confesses that in all instances where the attention of the courts is brought to the subject, the law is faithfully executed. What more can any man ask? No law can be said to be left unexecuted unless the case under it has been first brought before a court of some sort. It is a harsh and unjust judgment against northern people to allege that they are responsible for the escape of slaves who have never been arrested. When you talk about non execution of laws, you speak of cases that are never brought to the attention of the courts! It is a new and strange doctrine, that we are guilty of the non-fulfilment of a law, when we administer it fairly and impartially in every case brought before our tribunals."—(Laughter and applause.)

Green squirmed and twisted, but Douglas had him down and held him fast by the throat. He said he really wished the disunion gentlemen would cease dealing in vague generalities, and make out their catalogue of grievances with definite specifications, and let the senate take up each case of grief in its turn and consider it.—If this was done, the country would be amazed to see the little real cause of complaint that existed, after all the tremendous ado that was being made by the cotton states at this time.

Old aristocrat Mason arose with a lordly air and mien, and declared with swelling pomposity that he was utterly amazed at what Douglas had said, in relation to the execution of the fugitive law. He (Mason) knew that it was habitually trampled under foot, and that not one slave in ten who escaped was ever captured and returned.—The offence is complained of, that the free states do not see the covenants of the constitution executed. It is their duty to us to catch and restore our runaway niggers. It is the duty of the state government to help catch them. If the north expects to live with us they must catch them. They must also give us the right to take our slaves into the free states for temporary purposes. They must recognize our slaves as constitutional property. He proceeded in this strain for some time.

Douglas replied that the north was desirous to keep the covenants of the constitution, and as they did not understand the business of nigger-catching as well as the south, they agreed by their representatives in congress to assign the task of framing a satisfactory law to the gentleman from Virginia himself (who is the father of the present fugitive law.) It was passed without amendment, just as he drafted it. And now, if it works badly, why should the blow fall on the north? Why not shoulder the blame himself? If the law don't operate smoothly, it is no fault of the free states. He should not charge them with his own botch-work and blunders. For eight years the law had been in the hands of its friends. Pierce and Buchanan were democrats, the government had been democratic. No one charged those administrations with being derelict in duty. Why should the republicans be blamed, who had never been responsible for its execution? [It was with difficulty the chair restrained the applause in the galleries at these palpable hits and centre shots.] Wigfall came to the rescue of Mason, who was badly harpooned. But I must reserve for another letter the remainder of the discussion. It was decidedly rich, and agreeable to the republican side of the house.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17—9 P. M.

The St. Louis brigade returned from the southwestern border yesterday morning, and were received by a detachment of the National Guards remaining at home. Gen. The occasion was replete with expressions of kindness and congratulation.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE AMALGAMATION OF LANGUAGES.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words in other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into their own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head," is now becoming particularized in connection with Mr. Spaulding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."

'ardly Realized.

Hi 'ad 'a 'orrible 'eadache this afternoon, hand I stepped into the hapothecaries hand says hi to the man, "Can you hease me of an 'eadache?" "Does it hache 'ard," says 'e. "Hexceedingly," says hi, hand upon that 'e gave me a Cephalic Pill, hand 'pon me 'onor it cured me so quick that I 'ardly realized I 'ad 'ad an 'eadache.

☞ HEADACHE is the favorite sign by which nature makes known any deviation whatever from the natural state of the brain, and viewed in this light it may be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice of disease which might otherwise escape attention, till too late to be remedied; and its indications should never be neglected. Headaches may be classified under two names, viz: Symptomatic and Idiopathic. Symptomatic headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases, among which are Apoplexy, Gout, Rheumatism and all febrile diseases. In its nervous form it is sympathetic of disease of the stomach constituting sick headache, of hepatic disease constituting bilious headache, of worms, constipation and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine affections. Diseases of the heart are very frequently attended with headaches; Anaemia and plethora are also affections which frequently occasion headache. Idiopathic headache is also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous headache, sometimes coming on suddenly in a state of apparently sound health and prostrating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly, heralded by depression of spirits or acerbity of temper.—In most instances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes provoking vomiting; under this class may also be named Neuralgia.

For the treatment of either class of headache the Cephalic Pills have been found a sure and safe remedy, relieving the most acute pains in a few minutes, and by its subtle power eradicating the diseases of which headache is the unerring index.

BRIDGET.—Missus wants you to send her a box of Cephalic Glue, no, a bottle of prepared Pills,—but I'm thinking that's not just it neither; but perhaps ye'll be after knowing what it is. Ye see she's nigh dead and gone with the sick headache, and wants some more of that same as relaived her before.

Druggist.—You must mean Spalding's Cephalic Pills.

Bridget.—Och! sure now and you've sed it, here's the quarter and give me the pills and dont be all day about it aither.

Constipation or Costiveness.

No one of the "many ills flesh is heir to" is so prevalent, so little understood, and so much neglected as costiveness. Often originating in carelessness, or sedentary habits; it is regarded as a slight disorder of too little consequence to excite anxiety, while in reality it is the precursor and companion of many of the most fatal and dangerous diseases, and unless early eradicated it will bring the sufferer to an untimely grave. Among the lighter evils of which costiveness is the usual attendant are Headache, Colic, Rheumatism, Foul Breath, Piles and others of like nature, while a long train of frightful diseases such as Malignant Fevers, Abcesses, Dysentary, Diarrhoea, Dyspepsia, Apoplexy, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Hysteria, Hypochondriasis, Melancholy and Insanity, first indicate their presence in the system by this alarming symptom. Not unfrequently the diseases named originate in Constipation, but take on an independent existence unless the cause is eradicated in an early stage. From all these considerations it follows that the disorder should receive immediate attention whenever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cephalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will expel the insiduous approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous foe to human life.

A Real Blessing.

Physician.—Well, Mrs. Jones, how is your headache?

Mrs. Jones.—Gone! Doctor, all gone! the pill you sent cured me in just twenty minutes, and I wish you would send more so that I can have them handy.

Physician.—You can get them at any Druggists.—Call for Cephalic Pills, I find they never fail, and I recommend them in all cases of headache.

Mrs. Jones.—I shall send for a box directly, and shall tell all my suffering friends, for they are a real blessing.

TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SAVED.—Mr. Spalding has sold two millions of bottles of his celebrated Prepared Glue, and it is estimated that each bottle saves at least ten dollars worth of broken furniture, thus making an aggregate of twenty millions of dollars reclaimed from total loss by this valuable invention. Having made his glue a household word, he now proposes to do the world still greater service by curing all the aching heads with his Cephalic Pills, and if they are as good as his glue, headache will soon vanish away like snow in July.

☞ OVER EXCITEMENT, and the mental care and anxiety incident to close attention to business or study, are among the numerous causes of nervous headache. The disordered state of mind and body incident to this distressing complaint is a fatal blow to all energy and ambition. Sufferers by this disorder can always obtain speedy relief from these distressing attacks, by using one of the Cephalic Pills whenever the symptoms appear. It quiets the overtasked brain, and soothes the strained and jarring nerves, and relaxes the tension of the stomach which always accompanies and aggravates the disordered condition of the brain.

FACT WORTH KNOWING.—Spalding's Cephalic Pills are a certain cure for Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Nervous Headache, Costiveness and General Debility.

GREAT DISCOVERY.—Among the most important of all the great medical discoveries of this age may be considered the system of vaccination for protection from Small Pox, the Cephalic Pill for relief of headache, and the use of Quinine for the prevention of fevers, either of which is a sure specific, whose benefits will be experienced by suffering humanity long after their discoverers are forgotten.

☞ Did you ever have the sick headache? Do you remember the throbbing temples, the fevered brow, the loathing and disgust at the sight of food. How totally unfit you were for pleasure, conversation or study.—One of the Cephalic Pills would have relieved you from all the suffering which you then experienced. For this and other purposes you should always have a box of them on hand to use as occasion requires.

CURE
All kinds of

By the use of these pills the periodic attacks of Nervous or Sick Headache may be prevented; and if taken at the commencement of an attack immediate relief from pain and sickness will be obtained.

They seldom fail in removing Nausea and Headache to which females are so subject.

They act gently upon the bowels,—removing Costiveness.

For Literary Men, Students, delicate females, and all persons of sedentary habits, they are valuable as a Laxative, improving the appetite, giving tone and vigor to the digestive organs, and restoring the natural elasticity and strength of the whole system.

The CEPHALIC PILLS are the result of long investigation and carefully conducted experiments, having been in use many years, during which time they have prevented and relieved a vast amount of pain and suffering from headache, whether originating in the nervous system or from a deranged state of the stomach.

They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and may be taken at all times with perfect safety without making any change of diet, and the absence of any disagreeable taste renders it easy to administer them to children.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Lecture on Mexico and Central America.

From the conversation we have had with Mr. R. Wm. Hoit, who announces a lecture on Mexico and Central America at Lappin's Hall on Thursday evening next, we understand that one of the motives of the lecturer, and one of the objects of the lecture, is to aid in forming and maturing a sound and practical public opinion in this country at this crisis of our history in relation to these countries.

Mr. Hoit assumes, as a self-evident proposition—a fixed fact requiring no proof, that some policy, different from that pursued by previous administrations towards these distracted countries, should now be adopted. Of this fact the Spanish, French and English governments have become convinced, and are taking preliminary steps to carry out their designs for the protection of the lives and property of their subjects residing in them. Mr. Hoit considers that this country will necessarily have to interfere in the establishmedt of peace and tranquility between the contending factions of these so-called republics, but which in reality disgrace the name, and that the true interests of the United States, those of humanity, civilizatio: and freedom, no less than the welfare and prosperity of those countries themselves, demand a statesman-like and decisive policy to be adopted by this country, in defence of and in security for the lives and property of American citizens, who have established enterprises of commerce and industry and manufactories in them, and looking to the final absorption into one great and free republic to the Isthmus of Panama.

Mr. Hoit proposes to submit to the public the results of his observations and practical experience during twenty years, and hopes to correct some erroneous impressions, and help to shape the public mind in the right direction relative to those countries, and the question of slavery as applicable to them.

Fillibusterism has proved abortive; has died a natural death, and the field is now open to practical men for colonization enterprises, which, if properly established, will, it is contended by the lecturer, meet with brilliant success.

Mr. H. resides at Tiger Island, on the Pacific side of the state of Honduras, which is one of the states which composed the republic of Guatamala, where he has steam mills cutting mahogany and cedar timber, and intends returning with a number of practical men. He is not only well informed, but also practically experienced in all that pertains to those countries and their inhabitants, on which he will lecture, and, withal, personally interested in their condition and prosperity. Having resided in the city of Mexico from 1840 to 1847, Mr. Hoit is equally posted in relation to that republic, and we bespeak for his lecture a full attendance by our citizens.

Children's Books.

Messrs. Crosby, Nichols, Lee & Co., of Boston, send us a neat case containing six volumes of books, bound in "blue and gold," designed for the instruction and entertainment of children. They are entitled "Little Frankie's Stories," by Mrs. Madeline Leslie, and are illustrated by Billings with numerous wood cuts. These volumes give an account of "Little Frankie" and his mother, at his plays, with his cousin, his father, on a journey, and at school—all told in a charming style. The little boy who gets these "Frankie's Stories," as a Christmas or New Year's present, will be made happy for a good while, and perhaps better for life, as they contain excellent moral precepts, mingled with that which will attract the attention and interest the mind of a child. If any father or mother who reads this, desires a handsome holiday gift for their little son, they can find these books at Moseley & Brother's bookstore, together with a large assortment of other books suitable for old and young.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The jury, in the case of Phillip Baxter, indicted for resisting an officer in the discharge of his official duty, disagreed, and a nolle prosequi was entered.

The complaint against Jed. H. Rook was for selling liquor without a license, and dismissed in consequence of an informality in the warrant.

The forenoon, to day, was occupied in trying the question of the proper spelling a man's name. Uncle Tim of Johnstown, was indicted for selling liquor without a license, and he put in a plea in abatement that his name is Husbrook, and not Hasbrook, as the indictment declared. A jury took the case, after the examination of several witnesses, and decided in favor of the u. So "Tim" escapes in consequence of bad spelling.

Alfred H. Mayo was indicted for resisting an officer. He stood trial, but before the jury came in with a verdict was seized with a sudden impulse to slope, which he promptly executed.

A complaint against —— Ingalls for selling liquor without a license was dismissed; John Smith, the same; J. Monroe and Samuel Hughes, same complaint, recognisance forfeited.

The trial of Daniel Mapes for murder commenced this afternoon. J. C. Sloan, district attorney, prosecuting and Wm. H. Ebbett and J. R. Bennett defending. The following jury was empanneled.

A. Sherman, Reuben Slawson, S. D. Butts A. G. Benedict, A. G. Gifford, Guy Carter Chancy G. Howard, K. W. Bemis, N. W. Wilcox, E. Carey, Simeon Reed and Ira Fish.

We shall have a report of this trial as it progresses.

PALMER'S DRUG STORE.—We have to-day a new advertisement from the drug store of Andrew Palmer. A full stock of choice family groceries will call housekeepers to his store, as well as those who need what more particularly pertains to a drug store.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Lecture on Mexico and Central America.

From the conversation we have had with Mr. R. Wm. Hoit, who announces a lecture on Mexico and Central America at Lappin's Hall on Thursday evening next, we understand that one of the motives of the lecturer, and one of the objects of the lecture, is to aid in forming and maturing a sound and practical public opinion in this country at this crisis of our history in relation to these countries.

Mr. Hoit assumes, as a self-evident proposition—a fixed fact requiring no proof, that some policy, different from that pursued by previous administrations towards these distracted countries, should now be adopted. Of this fact the Spanish, French and English governments have become convinced, and are taking preliminary steps to carry out their designs for the protection of the lives and property of their subjects residing in them. Mr. Hoit considers that this country will necessarily have to interfere in the establishmedt of peace and tranquility between the contending factions of these so-called republics, but which in reality disgrace the name, and that the true interests of the United States, those of humanity, civilization and freedom, no less than the welfare and prosperity of those countries themselves, demand a statesman-like and decisive policy to be adopted by this country, in defence of and in security for the lives and property of American citizens, who have established enterprises of commerce and industry and manufactories in them, and looking to the final absorption into one great and free republic to the Isthmus of Panama.

Mr. Hoit proposes to submit to the public the results of his observations and practical experience during twenty years, and hopes to correct some erroneous impressions, and help to shape the public mind in the right direction relative to those countries, and the question of slavery as applicable to them.

Fillibusterism has proved abortive; has died a natural death, and the field is now open to practical men for colonization enterprises, which, if properly established, will, it is contended by the lecturer, meet with brilliant success.

Mr. H. resides at Tiger Island, on the Pacific side of the state of Honduras, which is one of the states which composed the republic of Guatamala, where he has steam mills cutting mahogany and cedar timber, and intends returning with a number of practical men. He is not only well informed, but also practically experienced in all that pertains to those countries and their inhabitants, on which he will lecture, and, withal, personally interested in their condition and prosperity. Having resided in the city of Mexico from 1840 to 1847, Mr. Hoit is equally posted in relation to that republic, and we bespeak for his lecture a full attendance by our citizens.

Children's Books.

Messrs. Crosby, Nichols, Lee & Co., of Boston, send us a neat case containing six volumes of books, bound in "blue and gold," designed for the instruction and entertainment of children. They are entitled "Little Frankie's Stories," by Mrs. Madeline Leslie, and are illustrated by Billings with numerous wood cuts. These volumes give an account of "Little Frankie" and his mother, at his plays, with his cousin, his father, on a journey, and at school—all told in a charming style. The little boy who gets these "Frankie's Stories," as a Christmas or New Year's present, will be made happy for a good while, and perhaps better for life, as they contain excellent moral precepts, mingled with that which will attract the attention and interest the mind of a child. If any father or mother who reads this, desires a handsome holiday gift for their little son, they can find these books at Moseley & Brother's bookstore, together with a large assortment of other books suitable for old and young.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The jury, in the case of Phillip Baxter, indicted for resisting an officer in the discharge of his official duty, disagreed, and a nolle prosequi was entered.

The complaint against Jed. H. Rook was for selling liquor without a license, and dismissed in consequence of an informality in the warrant.

The forenoon, to-day, was occupied in trying the question of the proper spelling a man's name. Uncle Tim of Johnstown, was indicted for selling liquor without a license, and he put in a plea in abatement that his name is Husbrook, and not Hasbrook, as the indictment declared. A jury took the case, after the examination of several witnesses, and decided in favor of the u. So "Tim" escapes in consequence of bad spelling.

Alfred H. Mayo was indicted for resisting an officer. He stood trial, but before the jury came in with a verdict was seized with a sudden impulse to slope, which he promptly executed.

A complaint against —— Ingalls for selling liquor without a license was dismissed; John Smith, the same; J. Monroe and Samuel Hughes, same complaint, recognisance forfeited.

The trial of Daniel Mapes for murder commenced this afternoon. I. C. Sloan, district attorney, prosecuting and Wm. H. Ebbett and J. R. Bennett defending. The following jury was empanneled.

A. Sherman, Reuben Slawson, S. D. Butts A. G. Benedict, A. G. Gifford, Guy Carter Chancy G. Howard, K. W. Bemis, N. W. Wilcox, E. Carey, Simeon Reed and Ira Fish.

We shall have a report of this trial as it progresses.

PALMER'S DRUG STORE.—We have to-day a new advertisement from the drug store of Andrew Palmer. Mr. P. has made a large addition to his stock, and with his uniform, fair dealing, and the excellence of his articles, is receiving a corresponding increase of trade. A full stock of choice family groceries will call housekeepers to his store, as well as those who need what more particularly pertains to a drug store.

SEASONABLE FRUITS.—The attention of the reader is directed to the advertisement of Mr. Wheelock. His supply of fruits is large and embraces all the varieties capable of preservation in any form. Housekeepers will do well to see what he can furnish.

THE AMALGAMATION OF LANGUAGES.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words in other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into their own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head," is now becoming particularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."

'Ardly Realized.

Hi 'ad 'a 'orrible 'eadache this afternoon, hand I stepped into the hapothecaries hand says hi to the man, "Can you hease me of an 'eadache?" "Does it hache 'ard," says 'e. "Hexceedingly," says hi, hand upon that 'e gave me a Cephalic Pill, hand 'pon me 'onor it cured me so quick that I 'ardly realized I 'ad 'ad an 'eadache.

☞ HEADACHE is the favorite sign by which nature makes known any deviation whatever from the natural state of the brain, and viewed in this light it may be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice of disease which might otherwise escape attention, till too late to be remedied, and its indications should never be neglected. Headaches may be classified under two names, viz: symptomatic and idiopathic. Symptomatic headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases, among which are Apoplexy, Gout, Rheumatism and all febrile diseases. In its nervous form it is sympathetic of disease of the stomach constituting sick headache, of hepatic disease constituting bilious headache, of worms, constipation and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine affections. Diseases of the heart are very frequently attended with headaches, Anæmia and plethora are also affections which frequently occasion headache. Idiopathic headache is also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous headache, sometimes coming on suddenly in a state of apparently sound health and prostrating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly, heralded by depression of spirits or acerbity of temper.—In most instances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes provoking vomiting, under this class may also be named Neuralgia.

For the treatment of either class of headache the Cephalic Pills have been found a sure and safe remedy, relieving the most acute pains in a few minutes, and by its subtile power eradicating the diseases of which headache is the unerring index.

BRIDGET.—Missus wants you to send her a box of Cephalic Glue, no, a bottle of prepared Pills,—but I'm thinking that's not just it neither; but perhaps ye'll be afther knowing what it is. Ye see she's nigh dead and gone with the sick headache, and wants some more of that same as relaived her before.

Druggist.—You must mean Spalding's Cephalic Pills.

Bridget.—Och! sure now and you've sed it, here's the quarter and give me the pills and dont be all day about it either.

Constipation or Costiveness.

No one of the "many ills flesh is heir to" is so prevalent, so little understood, and so much neglected as costiveness. Often originating in carelessness, or sedentary habits; it is regarded as a slight disorder of too little consequence to excite anxiety, while in reality it is the precursor and companion of many of the most fatal and dangerous diseases, and unless early eradicated it will bring the sufferer to an untimely grave. Among the lighter evils of which costiveness is the usual attendant are Headache, Colic, Rheumatism, Foul Breath, Piles and others of like nature, while a long train of frightful diseases such as Malignant Fevers, Abcesses, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Dyspepsia, Apoplexy, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Hysteria, Hypochondriasis, Melancholy and Insanity, first indicate their presence in the system by this alarming symptom. Not unfrequently the diseases named originate in Constipation, but take on an independent existence unless the cause is eradicated in an early stage. From all these considerations it follows that the disorder should receive immediate attention whenever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cephalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will expel the insidious approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous foe to human life.

A Real Blessing.

Physician.—Well, Mrs Jones, how is your headache?

Mrs. Jones.—Gone! Doctor, all gone! the pill you sent cured me in just twenty minutes, and I wish you would send more so that I can have them handy.

Physician.—You can get them at any Druggists.—Call for Cephalic Pills, I find they never fail, and I recommend them in all cases of headache.

Mrs. Jones.—I shall send for a box directly, and shall tell all my suffering friends, for they are a real blessing.

TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SAVED.—Mr. Spalding has sold two millions of bottles of his celebrated Prepared Glue and it is estimated that each bottle saves at least ten dollars worth of broken furniture, thus making an aggregate of twenty millions of dollars reclaimed from total loss by this valuable invention. Having made his glue a household word, he now proposes to do the world still greater service by curing all the aching heads with his Cephalic Pills, and if they are as good as his glue, headache will soon vanish away like snow in July.

☞ OVER EXCITEMENT, and the mental care and anxiety incident to close attention to business or study, are among the numerous causes of nervous headache. The disordered state of mind and body incident to this distressing complaint is a fatal blow to all energy and ambition. Sufferers by this disorder can always obtain speedy relief from these distressing attacks, by using one of the Cephalic Pills whenever the symptoms appear. It quiets the overtasked brain, and soothes the strained and jarring nerves, and relaxes the tension of the stomach which always accompanies and aggravates the disordered condition of the brain.

FACT WORTH KNOWING.—Spalding's Cephalic Pills are a certain cure for Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Nervous Headache, Costiveness and General Debility.

GREAT DISCOVERY.—Among the most important of all the great medical discoveries of this age may be considered the system of vaccination for protection from Small Pox, the Cephalic Pill for relief of headache, and the use of Quinine for the prevention of fevers, either of which is a sure specific, whose benefits will be experienced by suffering humanity long after their discoverers are forgotten.

☞ Did you ever have the sick headache? Do you remember the throbbing temples, the fevered brow, the loathing and disgust at the sight of food. How totally unfit you were for pleasure, conversation or study.—One of the Cephalic Pills would have relieved you from all the suffering which you then experienced. For this and other purposes you should always have a box of them on hand to use as occasion requires.

Cephalic Pills
CURE
Sick Headache!
CURE
Nervous Headache
CURE
All kinds of

By the use of these pills the periodic attacks of Nervous or Sick Headache may be prevented; and if taken at the commencement of an attack immediate relief from pain and sickness will be obtained.

They seldom fail in removing Nausea and Headache to which females are so subject.

They act gently upon the bowels,—removing Costiveness.

For Literary Men, Students, delicate females, and all persons of sedentary habits, they are valuable as a Laxative, improving the appetite, giving tone and vigor to the digestive organs, and restoring the natural elasticity and strength of the whole system.

The CEPHALIC PILLS are the result of long investigation and carefully conducted experiments, having been in use many years, during which time they have prevented and relieved a vast amount of pain and suffering from headache, whether originating in the nervous system or from a deranged state of the stomach.

They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and may be taken at all times with perfect safety without making any change of diet, and the absence of any disagreeable taste renders it easy to administer them to children.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE AMALGAMATION OF LANGUAGES.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words in other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into their own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head," is now becoming particularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."

'ardly Realized.

Hi 'ad 'n 'orrible 'eadache this afternoon, hand I stepped into the hapothecaries hand says hi to the man, "Can you hease me of an 'eadache?" "Does it hache 'ard," says 'e. "Hexceedingly," says hi, hand upon that 'e gave me a Cephalic Pill, hand 'pon me 'onor it cured me so quick that I 'ardly realized I 'ad 'ad an 'eadache.

☞ HEADACHE is the favorite sign by which nature makes known any deviation whatever from the natural state of the brain, and viewed in this light it may be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice of disease which might otherwise escape attention, till too late to be remedied; and its indications should never be neglected. Headaches may be classified under two names, viz: Symptomatic and Idiopathic. Symptomatic headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases, among which are Apoplexy, Gout, Rheumatism and all febrile diseases. In its nervous form it is sympathetic of disease of the stomach constituting sick headache, of hepatic disease constituting bilious headache, of worms, constipation and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine affections. Diseases of the heart are very frequently attended with headaches; Anæmia and plethora are also affections which frequently occasion headache. Idiopathic headache is also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous headache, sometimes coming on suddenly in a state of apparently sound health and prostrating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly, heralded by depression of spirits or acerbity of temper.—In most instances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes provoking vomiting; under this class may also be named Neuralgia.

For the treatment of either class of headache the Cephalic Pills have been found a sure and safe remedy, relieving the most acute pains in a few minutes, and by its subtle power eradicating the diseases of which headache is the unerring index.

BRIDGET.—Missus wants you to send her a box of Cephalic Glue, no, a bottle of prepared Pills,—but I'm thinking that's not just it neither; but perhaps ye'll be after knowing what it is. Ye see she's nigh dead and gone with the sick headache, and wants some more of that same as relaived her before.

Druggist.—You must mean Spalding's Cephalic Pills.

Bridget.—Och! sure now and you've sed it, here's the quarter and give me the pills and dont be all day about it aither.

Constipation or Costiveness.

No one of the "many ills flesh is heir to" is so prevalent, so little understood, and so much neglected as Costiveness. Often originating in carelessness, or sedentary habits; it is regarded as a slight disorder of too little consequence to excite anxiety, while in reality it is the precursor and companion of many of the most fatal and dangerous diseases, and unless early eradicated it will bring the sufferer to an untimely grave. Among the lighter evils of which costiveness is the usual attendant are Headache, Colic, Rheumatism, Foul Breath, Piles and others of like nature, while a long train of frightful diseases such as Malignant Fevers, Abcesses, Dysentary, Diarrhœa, Dyspepsia, Apoplexy, Epilepsy, Paralysis, Hysteria, Hypochondriasis, Melancholy and Insanity, first indicate their presence in the system by this alarming symptom. Not unfrequently the diseases named originate in Constipation, but take on an independent existence unless the cause is eradicated in an early stage. From all these considerations it follows that the disorder should receive immediate attention whenever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cephalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will expel the insiduous approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous foe to human life.

A Real Blessing.

Physician.—Well, Mrs. Jones, how is your headache?

Mrs. Jones.—Gone! Doctor, all gone! the pill you sent cured me in just twenty minutes, and I wish you would send more so that I can have them handy.

Physician.—You can get them at any Druggists.—Call for Cephalic Pills, I find they never fail, and I recommend them in all cases of headache.

Mrs. Jones.—I shall send for a box directly, and shall tell all my suffering friends, for they are a real blessing.

TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SAVED.—Mr. Spalding has sold two millions of bottles of his celebrated Prepared Glue, and it is estimated that each bottle saves at least ten dollars worth of broken furniture, thus making an aggregate of twenty millions of dollars reclaimed from total loss by this valuable invention. Having made his glue a household word, he now proposes to do the world still greater service by curing all the aching heads with his Cephalic Pills, and if they are as good as his glue, headache will soon vanish away like snow in July.

☞ OVER EXCITEMENT, and the mental care and anxiety incident to close attention to business or study, are among the numerous causes of nervous headache. The disordered state of mind and body incident to this distressing complaint is a fatal blow to all energy and ambition. Sufferers by this disorder can always obtain speedy relief from these distressing attacks, by using one of the Cephalic Pills whenever the symptoms appear. It quiets the overtasked brain, and soothes the strained and jarring nerves, and relaxes the tension of the stomach which always accompanies and aggravates the disordered condition of the brain.

FACT WORTH KNOWING.—Spalding's Cephalic Pills are a certain cure for Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Nervous Headache, Costiveness and General Debility.

GREAT DISCOVERY.—Among the most important of all the great medical discoveries of this age may be considered the system of vaccination for protection from Small Pox, the Cephalic Pill for relief of headache, and the use of Quinine for the prevention of fevers, either of which is a sure specific, whose benefits will be experienced by suffering humanity long after their discoverers are forgotten.

☞ Did you ever have the sick headache? Do you remember the throbbing temples, the fevered brow, the loathing and disgust at the sight of food. How totally unfit you were for pleasure, conversation or study.—One of the Cephalic Pills would have relieved you from all the suffering which you then experienced. For this and other purposes you should always have a box of them on hand to use as occasion requires.

CURE
All kinds of

By the use of these pills the periodic attacks of Nervous or Sick Headache may be prevented; and if taken at the commencement of an attack immediate relief from pain and sickness will be obtained.

They seldom fail in removing Nausea and Headache to which females are so subject.

They act gently upon the bowels,—removing Costiveness.

For Literary Men, Students, delicate females, and all persons of sedentary habits, they are valuable as a Laxative, improving the appetite, giving tone and vigor to the digestive organs, and restoring the natural elasticity and strength of the whole system.

The CEPHALIC PILLS are the result of long investigation and carefully conducted experiments, having been in use many years, during which time they have prevented and relieved a vast amount of pain and suffering from headache, whether originating in the nervous system or from a deranged state of the stomach.

They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and may be taken at all times with perfect safety without making any change of diet, and the absence of any disagreeable taste renders it easy to administer them to children.
